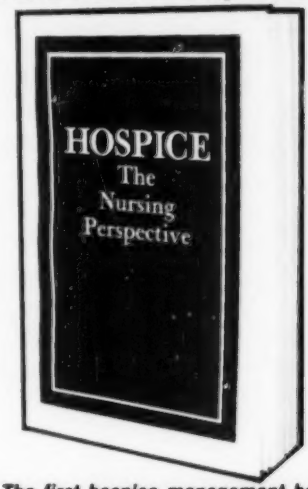
A Nurse's Book Society Selection!



The first hospice management book written entirely from the nurse's point of view!

HOSPICE

The Nursing Perspective

edited by Sylvia Schraff

Here's comprehensive, state-of-the-art information on how to

• finance and start a hospice program • supervise professional staff • work with the new Medicare regulations • recruit and retain volunteers, and • understand the hospice philosophy

Written by a distinguished group of nursing leaders, this book illustrates their experiences and provides their unique perspectives on starting and running successful hospice programs. The case examples detail how to set up hospices in such settings as community health agencies, hospitals, nursing homes, and freestanding, both in the not-for-profit and proprietary sectors. They follow the fledgling hospices through all the problems of implementation and then examine their status one year later. A special chapter gives the pros and cons of Medicare certification and explores diversification and alternative sources of funds.
